What are Wellness Dollars?

Wellness Dollars are funds that an insurance provider sets aside for your company to spend on qualifying wellness programs for employees. Sometimes considered a hidden benefit, Wellness Dollars are worth uncovering. By utilizing them, you can:

- ✓ Improve the overall health and wellbeing of your employees
- ✓ Reduce the number of insurance claims submitted to your plan
- ✓ Create a new sought-after company perk to help with recruitment

In the end, everyone wins – you, your employees, and your insurer.

Check your eligibility for Wellness Dollars

Contact your insurance provider representative and ask if Wellness Dollars are included in your plan.

If they are

Ask what type of health programs qualify.

If they are not

Consider negotiating them into next year's contract.

The amount of Wellness Dollars you're eligible for is up to your insurance provider, and usually depends on your company size, profitability, and employee health.<sup>1</sup>

Keep in mind: Wellness Dollars expire, so be sure to use them in time! If you have Wellness Dollars to use, consider pre-paying for your new wellness program to start in the benefit year.

Spending your Wellness Dollars

Remember that a good wellness program should address an employee's health holistically on multiple levels including physical and mental health.

One option to consider is offering your employees Fitbit wearables and Fitbit Premium memberships<sup>2</sup>, which would give them access to:
